MOOSE PARTY OUT OF RUNNING

Democrat Wing Protests Indorsing G. O. P. Candidate.

Executive Committee Organizes to Maintain Identity.

Chicago, June 27.—Fifteen members of the Progressive national committee who fought vainly against adoption of Colonel Roosevelt's platform of indorsement of Charles E. Hughes for the presidency, sought today to keep the Bull Moose organization alive in their insular political committee. The committee, which put through indorsement of Hughes by a vote of 22 to 6, with nine not voting, prepared today to aid the Republican campaign committee. The defeated minority, led by Capt. John M. Parker of Louisiana, the Progressive nominee for vice president, had definitely completed their plans today.

Adopt T. R. Recommendation.

Chicago, June 27.—Indorsing the recommendation of Theodore Roosevelt, their leader, the Progressive party officially will line up behind the Republican national ticket, supporting Charles E. Hughes for the presidency. Technically, the party is not a unit in this movement, as apparent at the closing session of the meeting of the national committee. The radicals, led by Parker of Louisiana, declared they might support Wilson. National Chairman Robins was outspoken in his opposition to the move, saying that he will return to the fold of the Democrats.

The Democrat wing of the Progressives, however, do not intend immediately to lose all identity. The adjournment was preceded by an agreement that the executive committee shall meet in New York soon, to confer with Mr. Hughes and the G. O. P. leaders.

It Was a Stormy Session.

By a vote of 22 to 6, with 9 members declining to vote, the national committee at the end of a stormy session, indorsed Charles E. Hughes for president, and the Bull Moose party practically went out of existence as a national political organization. The fight in the committee to indorse Hughes was led by George W. Perkins of New York; James R. Garfield of Ohio, and Chester H. Rowell of California. The radical element in the committee, represented by Matthew Hale, of Massachusetts; Bainbridge Colby of New York; Henry F. Cochrane of Wisconsin, and John M. Parker of Louisiana, vigorously protested against the indorsement of any candidate for president and the majority at every step of the proceedings.

Public Session Demanded.

The minority's first move was to insist on an open meeting of the committee, which it won after a number of the committeemen, led by John M. Parker of Louisiana, booted the meeting.

After Secretary Oscar King Davis read Col. Theodore Roosevelt's letter, in which he finally accepted the presidential nomination of the party and urged that Charles E. Hughes be supported by the members of the Progressive party in order to defeat President Wilson, the committee voted to accept the colonel's declaration and took a recess for an hour. At the beginning of the afternoon session, Chairman Matthew Hale of Massachusetts, ruled that the next order of business was to fill the vacancy on the ticket caused by the refusal of Colonel Roosevelt to run. Bainbridge Colby of New York presented the name of Victor Murdock of Kansas, chairman of the national committee, who is now on his way to China, as the party's candidate for president.

Motion to Indorse Hughes.

This led to a clash between Raymond Robins of Illinois and Mr. Colby, in which the latter was passed. Mr. Robins said Mr. Murdock had told him he would not accept the presidential nomination and the proposition to run a third party ticket was defeated, after a spirited debate by a vote of 31 to 15.

James R. Garfield then introduced a resolution indorsing Hughes for president and directing the executive committee of the Progressive party to cooperate with the Republicans in the campaign.

Henry F. Cochrane, of Wisconsin, raised the point that the committee had no authority to indorse any candidate and that its power was limited to the filling of the vacancy on the ticket.

The committee then voted to accept the resolution of indorsement of Hughes, which was passed by a vote of 22 to 6, with 9 members declining to vote.

At the close of the session, the committee adjourned.

ticket caused by the refusal of Roosevelt to run.

Chairman Hale ruled that the motion to indorse or recommend the Republican candidate for president was out of order and a debate of several hours followed.

Overruled the Chairman.

Finally, James R. Garfield appealed from the decision of the chair and was sustained in his contention by a vote of 33 to 14. During the discussion Raymond Robins opposed making any indorsement and indicated that he would support President Wilson if the Progressives did not put a ticket in the field.

The Vote by States.

The following states voted for the indorsement of Hughes on the roll call: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, Wyoming and Hawaii.

Whereas, A statement issued by this committee in January, and the platform adopted by the Progressive national convention set forth that putting aside all partisan considerations, in view of the existing world and national conditions we would work with any man or party who saw the nation's need and put forth a leader, we therefore indorse and cover in the recommendation of Colonel Roosevelt that we support Mr. Hughes.

Resolved, That we hereby direct the committee to endeavor to secure the election of Mr. Hughes and take any steps that they deem proper effectively to prosecute the campaign.

Resolved, That we leave to the state committees the determination of their respective states and recommend that whatever action they take be taken in conference with the national executive committee.

Resolution Adopted.

Before adjournment, the following resolutions were adopted by the committee as expressing the sense of the committee. They were prepared and presented by Dean W. D. Lewis of Pennsylvania.

The national Progressive committee, in determining its action upon the letter of Colonel Roosevelt, declining the nomination of the Progressive party, recognized the following basic facts:

1.—The Progressive party was created by the union of men who saw that if our nation was to maintain its place in civilization, certain great values must be maintained in economic conditions, in governmental efficiency and in political morality.

2.—Moved by this purpose at the sacrifice of old associations and material comfort, the leadership of Theodore Roosevelt, these men and women for four years, with hope and courage, labored to serve their country in its need. In the final test of a vote which they fought for a third party ticket, the Progressive party, as a national political organization, was defeated.

3.—The Progressive party, however, do not intend immediately to lose all identity. The adjournment was preceded by an agreement that the executive committee shall meet in New York soon, to confer with Mr. Hughes and the G. O. P. leaders.

4.—As a plain political fact the next election will be fought on the basis of either Republican or Democratic.

5.—The Progressive party holds the leading vote in this issue. If that party throws its weight to Mr. Hughes his election probably will be insured. If that party runs a third ticket of its own, it is equally probable that it will insure the re-election of Mr. Wilson. The Progressive party, therefore, in the name of the nation, and in the name of the Progressive party, set forth its policy in order to defeat President Wilson, the committee voted to accept the colonel's declaration and took a recess for an hour.

6.—At the beginning of the afternoon session, Chairman Matthew Hale of Massachusetts, ruled that the next order of business was to fill the vacancy on the ticket caused by the refusal of Colonel Roosevelt to run.

7.—Bainbridge Colby of New York presented the name of Victor Murdock of Kansas, chairman of the national committee, who is now on his way to China, as the party's candidate for president.

8.—This led to a clash between Raymond Robins of Illinois and Mr. Colby, in which the latter was passed.

9.—Mr. Robins said Mr. Murdock had told him he would not accept the presidential nomination and the proposition to run a third party ticket was defeated, after a spirited debate by a vote of 31 to 15.

10.—James R. Garfield then introduced a resolution indorsing Hughes for president and directing the executive committee of the Progressive party to cooperate with the Republicans in the campaign.

11.—Henry F. Cochrane, of Wisconsin, raised the point that the committee had no authority to indorse any candidate and that its power was limited to the filling of the vacancy on the ticket.
